Bishop T.D. Jakes remained silent on the arrest of his son-in-law, Richard Brandon Coleman, for sexual assault of adopted daughter. Richard Coleman was married to Jakes’ eldest daughter, Cora Jakes-Coleman at the time of the alleged assault.

Bishop T.D. Jakes has been quiet about these allegations, just as he was when the man he walked his eldest daughter, Cora Jakes-Coleman, down the aisle at his home in June 2020, was accused of molesting his adopted daughter, Amauri. When Bishop Jakes' the son-in-law, Richard Brandon Coleman, was arrested in last year for the sexual assault Bishop Jakes himself, did not say a mumbling word. Neither did he utter a word in defense of the women who alleged that his friend sexually assaulted them.

R&B singer Jaguar Wright said Bishop T.D. Jakes was at a Diddy party for either “sex or money”

While the claims against Bishop Jakes are currently unsubstantiated and unfounded, failed R&B singer Jaguar Wright mentioned in a podcast once before that Bishop Jakes was at a Diddy party for either “sex or money” when asked about her thoughts on Bishop Jakes attending a Diddy party.
